Afghan Election Collapses

Rival to Karzai withdraws from runoff, citing fraud

KABUL | President Hamid Karzai was effectively handed a second five-year term Sunday when his only challenger dropped out of the race, and the Obama administration said it was prepared to work with the man it has previously criticized to combat corruption and confront the Taliban insurgency.

Former foreign minister Abdullah Abdullah announced his decision to quit six days before the runoff election, after last-minute talks led by the U.S. and United Nations failed to produce a power-sharing agreement acceptable to Karzai, according to a Western diplomat who spoke on condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the negotiations.

In an emotional speech, Abdullah told supporters that he could not accept a runoff led by the same Karzai-appointed election commission that managed the fraud-marred vote in August. The runoff was set for Saturday after U.N.-backed auditors annulled nearly a third of Karzai's votes as fakes.

Abdullah stopped short of calling on supporters to boycott the polls — a move U.S. officials feared would have enflamed tensions. He also urged his followers "not to go into the streets" to protest the election.

"The people have the right to have a fair election," Abdullah said. "But this election was a failure." HEIDI VOGT, ROBERT H. REID (AP)

Vaccine's Safety Under Scrutiny

Independent advisers to monitor side effects of H1N1 inoculations

WASHINGTON | Independent health advisers begin monitoring safety of the swine flu vaccine on Monday, an extra step the government promised in this year's unprecedented program to watch for possible side effects.

Decades of safe influenza inoculations mean specialists aren't expecting problems with the swine flu vaccine, because it's made the same way as the regular winter flu vaccine. But systems to track the health of millions of Americans are being tapped to make sure — to spot any real problems quickly, and to explain the inevitable false alarms when common disorders coincide with inoculation.

U.S. health officials have spotted no concerns to date, said Dr. Bruce Gellin, head of the National Vaccine Program Office.

A specially appointed working group of independent experts will track the vaccine's safety, too. Although the group will deliberate in private meetings starting Monday, its charge is to raise a red flag if members think the feds miss anything.

"Given the rapidity with which this particular vaccine was rolled out, there seems to be an extra-special obligation to make sure things remain as uncomplicated as they have in the past," said Dr. Marie McCormick of the Harvard School of Public Health, who chairs the group.

Vaccinations against the H1N1 strain have begun more slowly than officials had hoped, with long lines for the nearly 27 million doses divided among the U.S. so far.

While vaccine side effects always are monitored, the H1N1 inoculations are getting extra scrutiny in part because the last mass vaccinations against a very different swine flu, in 1976, were marred by reports of a rare paralyzing condition, Guillain-Barre syndrome. LAURAN NEERGAARD (AP)

Lender CIT Files Chapter 11

Government is likely to lose $2.3B used to prop up the company

WASHINGTON | After struggling for months to avert bankruptcy, lender CIT Group has filed for Chapter 11 protection in an attempt to restructure its debt while trying to keep badly needed loans flowing to thousands of mid-sized and small businesses.

CIT made the filing in New York bankruptcy court Sunday, after a debt-exchange offer to bondholders failed. CIT said in a statement that its bondholders overwhelmingly opted for a prepackaged reorganization plan, which will reduce total debt by $10 billion while allowing the company to continue to do business.

The Chapter 11 filing is one of the biggest in U.S. corporate history, following Lehman Brothers, Washington Mutual, WorldCom and General Motors. CIT's bankruptcy filing shows $71 billion in finance and leasing assets against total debt of $64.9 billion.

A prepackaged bankruptcy, which has the support of major bondholders, speeds up the process of restructuring CIT's debt and could allow it to exit court protection by the end of the year.

"The decision to proceed with our plan of reorganization will allow CIT to continue to provide funding to our small business and middle market customers," said Jeffrey M. Peek, chairman and CEO.

CIT's move will wipe out current holders of its common and preferred stock.

That means the U.S. government will likely lose the $2.3 billion it sunk into CIT last year in return for preferred shares to prop up the ailing company.

The government could have lost billions more had it not declined to hand over more aid to the company earlier this year. (AP)

N.Y. assemblywoman endorses former rival for congressional seat

ALBANY, N.Y. | A day after Republican state Assemblywoman Dierdre Scozzafava abruptly suspended her campaign for a New York congressional seat, she announced Sunday she's endorsing the Democrat in the race — not the Conservative Party candidate favored by fellow Republicans.

Scozzafava said Democrat Bill Owens would be better at building on the legacy of Republican John McHugh, who previously represented the 23rd Congressional District. McHugh vacated the seat after accepting a position in the Obama administration as secretary of the Army. The special election to replace him is scheduled for Tuesday.

Republican Dierdre Scozzafava abruptly suspended her campaign for a New York congressional seat on Saturday and then endorsed Democrat Bill Owens Sunday.

A recent Siena College poll showed Scozzafava finishing a distant third behind Owens and conservative Doug Hoffman. Big-name Republicans including former Alaska governor Sarah Palin and former Tennessee senator Fred Thompson threw their support behind Hoffman.

The race pitted conservative and moderate wings of the Republican Party. Hoffman painted Scozzafava as too liberal, specifically noting her support of abortion rights and same-sex marriage. He told voters in the historically GOP district that she's not the kind of Republican they want representing them in a Democrat-led Congress.

Owens released a statement saying he's honored to receive the endorsement. “Dede has always committed to serving the people of upstate New York before serving a partisan agenda. I have a tremendous amount of respect for what she's accomplished,” Owens said.

Same-Sex Unions Face Test in Maine

State could become first in nation to OK gay marriage in vote

PORTLAND, MAINE | Gay marriage has lost in every single U.S. state in which it has been put to a popular vote. Come Election Day, gay-rights supporters are hoping to make Maine the exception.

In a referendum that is being closely watched across the country and has drawn millions in out-of-state dollars, Maine voters will decide Tuesday whether to repeal a state law that would allow same-sex couples to marry.

If it is repealed, it will be another major defeat for the gay-rights movement, which saw voters in California put a stop to same-sex weddings there last year. A loss in Maine would be especially heart-

The polls have been difficult to interpret. But both sides say the contest will be close and will hinge on turnout, particularly among the 18-to-25-year-olds who went to the polls in great numbers last year to elect President Obama.

U.S. Forced to Work With Karzai

KABUL | President Hamid Karzai's leadership is weak, his government is corrupt, and nearly a third of the votes he won in the August election were thrown out as fakes.

But in the end, the Obama administration is sticking by the Afghan president — because it has few other good options.

Karzai is far from the strong and capable partner that Washington had hoped would emerge from the electoral process that it and Western allies had pushed for in Afghanistan. They hoped the elections would stabilize the country and bleed support from the Taliban.

But the process effectively ended in turmoil Sunday, even as the war with the Taliban intensifies. Karzai's challenger, Abdullah Abdullah, bowed out only six days before a planned runoff, charging that no fair election was possible.

Now the U.S., barring other developments, must find a way to work with Karzai, who was widely favored to win the runoff anyway, and encourage him to embrace supporters of Abdullah and other groups opposed to the Taliban.

Unless such groups are brought into the government, the Taliban are likely to grow in strength.

Karzai enjoyed close ties with former president George W. Bush's administration, but he fell out of favor when President Obama took the White House. U.S. officials have since been openly critical of Karzai as a weak leader.

Nevertheless, the Obama administration clearly concluded at some point that for all his faults, Karzai was the best it could get, given the realities of Afghanistan.

"We are going to deal with the government that is there," said White House presidential adviser David Axelrod. "And, obviously, there are issues we need to discuss, such as reducing the high level of corruption. These are issues we'll take up with President Karzai."

Former president Bill Clinton delivers a speech near an 11-foot statue of him that was unveiled on Sunday in Pristina, Kosovo.

Ex-President Is Honored in Kosovo

Bill Clinton attends unveiling of 11-foot gold statue of himself

PRISTINA, KOSOVO | Thousands of ethnic Albanians braved low temperatures and a cold wind in Kosovo's capital, Pristina, to welcome former president Bill Clinton on Sunday as he attended the unveiling of an 11-foot statue of himself on a key boulevard that also bears his name.

Clinton is celebrated as a hero by Kosovo's ethnic Albanian majority for launching NATO's bombing campaign against Yugoslavia in 1999 that stopped the Serb forces' crackdown on independence-seeking ethnic Albanians.

This is his first visit to Kosovo since it declared independence from Serbia last year.

Many waved American, Albanian and Kosovar flags as the former president climbed on top of a podium to watch the unveiling.

The gold-sprayed statue portrays Clinton holding a portfolio bearing his name and the date when NATO started bombing Yugoslavia, on March. 24, 1999.

"I never expected that anywhere, someone would make such a big statue of me."

—BILL CLINTON

An estimated 10,000 ethnic Albanians were killed during the Kosovo crackdown, and about 800,000 were forced out of their homes. They returned home after NATO-led peacekeepers moved in following 78 days of bombing.

Leta Krasniqi, an ethnic Albanian, said the statue was the best way to express the ethnic Albanians' gratitude for Clinton's role in making Kosovo a state.

"This is a big day," said Krasniqi, 25. "I live nearby, and I'm really excited that I will be able to see the statue of such a big friend of ours every day." NEBI QENA (AP)

Palestinians Shun Clinton's Overture

U.S. secretary of state lauds concessions by Israel, urges new talks

MARRAKECH, MOROCCO | Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton is praising Israel for "unprecedented" concessions in the interest of restarting peace talks with the Palestinians, but her shuttle diplomacy produced no sign of a breakthrough.

The Palestinians on Saturday rejected Israel's offer to show "restraint" in settlement construction in the West Bank, rather than completely halting building. Clinton spoke approvingly of the Israeli offer, knowing it is at odds with the prevailing Palestinian view.

After talks Saturday in the Persian Gulf with Palestinians and in Jerusalem with Israelis, Clinton flew to Marrakech to prepare for talks to include consultations with Arab foreign ministers.

Palestinian leaders have said they will not return to peace talks with Israel unless it stops all settlement building on lands they claim for a future state, and they believe Israel has blatantly defied a U.S. demand for a settlement freeze.

Palestinian workers walk near a construction site in the West Bank in June.

Speaking Saturday at a press conference with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, Clinton said Israel is putting significant limits on settlement activity.

"What the prime minister has offered in specifics on restraints on a policy of settlements ... is unprecedented," she said.

But Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas is sticking to his refusal to resume talks until Israel stops building settlements. Abbas is fighting a perception that he repeatedly caves in to U.S. demands.

Abbas spokesman Nabil Abu Rdenah said, "There can be no excuse for the continuation of settlements, which is really the main obstacle in the way of any credible peace process." ROBERT BURNS (AP)

Israelis Nab Suspected Serial Killer

JERUSALEM | Israeli authorities have arrested a Jewish-American extremist suspected of carrying out a series of high-profile hate crimes, security officials said Sunday.

Police and Shin Bet security forces say Jack Teitel, 37, an ultra-Orthodox Jewish West Bank settler, was behind the killing of two Arabs, the targeting of a peace activist and an attack on a breakaway Jewish sect over 12 years.

Authorities originally suspected an extremist Jewish underground for some of the attacks. But acquaintances described Teitel, a father of four, as a lone wolf, and authorities say he acted alone. (AP)

Barricades block the entrance of a school that is closed in Islamabad, Pakistan. Militants have targeted a range of locations in the capital, including a university.

Attacks Paralyze Pakistan's Capital

Recent militant raids transform Islamabad into city under siege

ISLAMABAD | An onslaught of militant violence has transformed Pakistan's capital from a sleepy oasis to something of a city under siege, with its tree-lined streets barricaded, schools shuttered and jittery residents wondering when the next attack will come.

The fear shows how Taliban and al-Qaeda-led insurgents based along the Afghan border have brought the war into Pakistan's political and diplomatic heart, something they hope will force the government to halt a new army offensive into their stronghold.

The unease has been heightened by the range of targets attacked despite a nationwide security clampdown. Suicide bombers hit the International Islamic University and a U.N. office in Islamabad; militants took officers hostage for 22 hours at army headquarters in the neighboring city of Rawalpindi; commando-style raids paralyzed the city of Lahore; and bombs have ripped through markets in the northwest.

More than 300 people have been killed, most of them Pakistani civilians. And no one expects the attacks to end soon.

"The feeling is that things have degenerated terribly," said Javed Akhtar, a corporate lawyer. "The university bombing [on Oct. 20] sent a chill through everyone. There is now a realization that targets are unrestricted. It is no-holds-barred." CHRIS BRUMMITT (AP)

Pakistani Forces Kill Seven Militants

ISLAMABAD | Security forces fighting their way through a mountainous Taliban stronghold killed at least seven militants Sunday and injured several more, officials said, while Pakistan's foreign minister said the offensive in tribal South Waziristan should finish sooner than originally expected.

As part of the government's ramping up of its fight against the militants, it will offer bounties of up to $600,000 for each of the top three Taliban leaders, according to an official advertisement to be published Monday in Pakistani newspapers and obtained by The Associated Press. (AP)

GOP makes big push to rally voters ahead of Tuesday's election

Thousands of campaign staffers and volunteers fanned out across the state Saturday, knocking on doors and making phone calls to urge voters to go to the polls Tuesday and cast a ballot for Republican Robert F. McDonnell or Democrat R. Creigh Deeds in the closely watched race for Virginia governor.

Republicans, excited by the prospect of winning after eight years of losses, said they have embarked on their largest-ever get-out-the-vote program in Virginia, reaching twice as many people as they did during last year's presidential race. They said they had phoned nearly 2.5 million residents since April and knocked on more than half a million doors as they tried to ensure that their enthusiasm translates at the ballot box.

Democrats, down in every poll since June, are staging a last-ditch effort to energize voters, the sort of highly organized operation that helped them elect two consecutive governors and two U.S. senators, and deliver the state for a Democratic presidential candidate for the first time in more than four decades. They said they expect to contact 620,000 Virginians 14 times in the final two weeks of the campaign.

More than 200 Republican volunteers cheered McDonnell as he addressed them Saturday at a rally in Springfield. "Now the TV's been done. The radio's done. The slick glossy fliers are in the mail. But now it's up to you," McDonnell said.

Deeds stumped at several events in southwest Virginia with U.S. Sen. James Webb, D-Va., and Gov. Timothy M. Kaine, who is chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

"We've got four days, and this race is ours to win," Deeds said Friday at a rally at the King Street Blues restaurant in Alexandria. "We just have to drive every single vote out." ANITA KUMAR AND ROSALIND S. HELDERMAN (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Former Alexandria officer warns about driving while drunk

ALEXANDRIA, VA. | A former Alexandria police chief who resigned in July after a drunken-driving arrest appears in a new video warning about the dangers of driving while intoxicated.

David Baker, 58, appeared in the video at the request of the Washington Regional Alcohol Program.

Baker was sentenced earlier this year in Arlington District Court to five days in jail and a $300 fine.

General purpose gift cards can sometimes come with an array of hidden surcharges

NEW YORK | You buy your sister a $100 general purpose gift card. It's for her birthday, but it might be the bank that has reason to celebrate.

Despite your good intentions, such gift cards often come with a tangle of fine print and fees that can ensnare unsuspecting recipients. Your sister might not realize that a $3 monthly inactivity fee kicks in after a year. Or it could annoy her that it costs $12 to replace a lost card.

So, before you start loading up on gift cards for the holidays, be sure you know the pitfalls.

The Basics

There are two types of gift cards — store cards and general-purpose bank cards. The latter are Visa-, MasterCard- or American Express-branded cards that you can use wherever those credit cards are accepted.

Unlike with gift cards to specific stores, there are usually fees to buy general purpose gift cards.

There are multiple reasons shoppers should be wary of general purpose gift cards.

Chase and Wells Fargo cards cost $3.50 apiece. American Express cards cost between $2.95 and $6.95, depending on the value of the card.

Running Meter

Once a general purpose bank card is purchased, the clock on the expiration date starts ticking. The card's value could disappear even before the expiration date as a result of dormancy fees. Some cards start charging monthly fees as early as six months after purchase, according to the Consumer Federation of America.

New Safeguards

The good news is that retailers and banks will have to abide by some new ground rules with gift cards starting in August 2010. Issuers will be banned from putting an expiration date on gift cards, unless it's at least five years after the card is loaded.

Inactivity fees will also be banned, unless the card hasn't been used for at least a year. Issuers will also be required to "clearly and conspicuously" state fees on packaging. Until then, it might be easier to simply steer clear of general purpose gift cards. CANDICE CHOI (AP)

REAL ESTATE

Amid the heap of obligations and expenses that come with buying a house, title insurance can be one of the most bewildering. The topic can make your eyes glaze over, but anyone buying a home for the first time needs to understand exactly what it is.

What is the purpose of title insurance?

The title to a home can carry any number of ugly surprises. There could be liens against the house for unpaid property, state or federal taxes, or even unpaid remodeling bills. Or the ownership of the home — and the right of the seller to put it on the market — could be disputed. Your attorney or the title insurance company should perform a search on the title, but such searches aren't always exhaustive. Title insurance is intended to protect against any liens that might come to light.

What types of insurance are there, and are they required?

There are two types of title insurance: lender's title insurance and owner's title insurance. The bank issuing your mortgage will require you to buy lender's title insurance. However, that covers only the amount of your mortgage, and coverage lasts only for the duration of the loan. An owner's policy, which is optional, is intended to bridge any gaps in coverage.

Who pays for title insurance, and how much is it?

You pay for the lender's coverage, and the price will be based on the amount of the loan. The price of owner's title insurance will vary depending on where you live. On average, getting owner's title insurance on a $250,000 home would cost about a one-time fee of about $900, according to the American Land Title Association. CANDICE CHOI (AP)

Ravens Clamp Down on Broncos

Baltimore's defense shines as McDaniels gets first loss as coach

RAVENS | The Baltimore Ravens handed Denver its first loss by implementing the blueprint that the Broncos employed in winning their first six games.

Rookie Lardarius Webb returned the second-half kickoff 95 yards for a score, and the Ravens ended a three-game losing streak with surprising ease, defeating the Broncos 30-7 on Sunday.

It was Denver's first loss under rookie head coach Josh McDaniels. The Broncos (6-1) came in with the NFL's top-ranked defense, a plus-seven turnover differential and one of the league's best kick returners in Eddie Royal. Denver had also outscored the opposition 76-10 after halftime.

The Ravens, however, dominated each of those facets of the game.

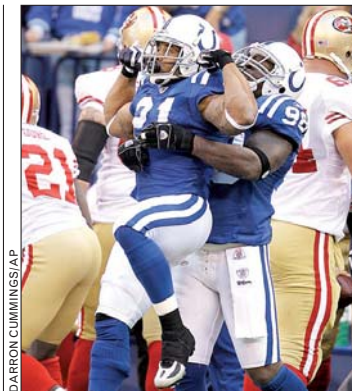

Baltimore (4-3) limited Denver to 200 yards, scored off the game's lone turnover, won the special teams battle and pulled away after leading just 6-0 at halftime.

Denver started the day as one of three unbeaten teams in the NFL and was trying to improve to 7-0 for the first time since 1998. Baltimore needed a win to avoid falling under .500 and dropping two games behind Pittsburgh and Cincinnati in the AFC North.

In a duel between an undefeated team and a desperate one, the Ravens prevailed. Baltimore held Royal in check, bottled up quarterback Kyle Orton and became the first team this season to rush for more than 100 yards against Denver.

The tone was set on first play from scrimmage, when Ravens linebacker Jarret Johnson blitzed untouched from the left side, sacking Orton for an 8-yard loss.

Denver managed just 79 yards of offense while being held scoreless in the first half for the first time this season. (AP)

Colts Eke Out Win Over 49ers

NFL | The Indianapolis Colts won their 16th-straight regular-season game, the equivalent of an undefeated season, and Jim Caldwell became the first rookie coach since the NFL merger to open his career with seven consecutive wins, thanks to Sunday's 18-14 victory over San Francisco.

Peyton Manning topped 300 yards, and Joseph Addai threw a 22-yard touchdown pass to Reggie Wayne early in the final quarter to give the Colts their only lead.

The Colts (7-0) are the last unbeaten team in the AFC for the fourth time in five years. (AP)

Miami special teams unit scores twice in AFC East rivalry win

NFL | The Miami Dolphins have the last word — for now.

Ted Ginn Jr. had two long kickoff returns for touchdowns in the third quarter, and the Dolphins held off the New York Jets for a 30-25 victory Sunday.

a reignited AFC East rivalry. The bad feelings were evident even before the game, when the Jets' Kerry Rhodes and a few Dolphins players got into a shoving match during warm-ups.

And, just like the last time these teams met, the game came down to the wire.

Facing a fourth-and-13 after a sack by Randy Starks with just over a minute remaining, Mark Sanchez scrambled before firing an incomplete pass over the outstretched arms of Dustin Keller in the end zone to seal the loss for the Jets (4-4).

Ginn became the first player to return two kickoffs for touchdowns in the same quarter since Green Bay's Travis Williams in 1967. Ginn had returns of 100 and 101 yards against the Jets.

Jason Taylor also added a non-offensive touchdown in the third quarter when he returned a fumble 48 yards for a touchdown. (AP)

THE PERCENTAGE INCREASE in viewership of Game 3 of the World Series from last year. The New York Yankees' 8-5 win over the Philadelphia Phillies on Saturday night received a 9.1 rating and 18 share, Fox said Sunday. It is the highest mark for a World Series game since the Chicago White Sox beat the Houston Astros 5-3 in the 2005 opener. The three-game average is up 42 percent from last year's World Series. (AP)

Texas Jumps to No. 2 in AP Poll; Alabama Slips to No. 3

Texas is back to No. 2 in the AP college football poll. The Longhorns jumped Alabama and landed right behind top-ranked Florida on Sunday, the day after winning 41-14 at Oklahoma State in their best performance of the season. Florida, No. 1 for all but one week this season, received 38 first-place votes after a convincing 41-17 victory over Georgia. Alabama, which spent a week at No. 1, slipped to No. 3 in an off week, after receiving eight first-place votes. (AP)

McMurray wins race after bump-drafting banned at Ala. track

NASCAR | Jamie McMurray was the unlikely winner of an uncharacteristically dull race at Talladega Superspeedway, where a ban on bump-drafting forced most drivers to coast until the end Sunday.

It almost cost three-time defending champion Jimmie Johnson dearly. He pattered around the back of the pack most of the afternoon and almost ran out of time to charge back through the field.

But when Ryan Newman's harrowing accident with five laps remaining caused a red-flag delay of nearly 13 minutes while Newman was cut out of his car, drivers ahead of Johnson began to run out of gas. He was credited with an eighth-place finish — enough to likely seal his NASCAR-record fourth consecutive championship.

Newman's accident set up a two-lap sprint to the finish, but the race still ended under caution because of another spectacular crash that sent Mark Martin flipping across the racetrack.

McMurray, stuck in an 86-race winless streak dating to Daytona in July 2007, coasted across the finish line for the third victory of his career.

Kasey Kahne was second, followed by rookie Joey Logano. (AP)

Not a '1 Thing' Wonder

Amerie consolidates control of her music in hopes of keeping her star on the rise

VISION | Half-diva, half-brainiac, 29-year-old singer Amerie likes to read science magazines while she prepares for a photo shoot. But most know Amerie as the voice behind 2005's chart-topping R&B single "1 Thing." With its bursts of percussion and ribbons of insistent melody, the song remains one of the decade's most revelatory pieces of pop music. "It's this one thing and I was so with it," she belts on the song's delirious refrain. "It's

“[A lot of artists] sound like the producer who did the record. To me, that's super-whack.”

this one thing you did.”

On Tuesday, Amerie will try to do it again with “In Love & War,” her first U.S. release after a four-year absence. Weaving urgent melodies through sandpapery beats, it's an album tailor-made to stand out in an era when R&B singers are often treated as interchangeable parts in the great American pop machine.

“On the radio, you have a lot of artists sounding like each other,” Amerie says. “They don't sound like themselves — they just sound like the producer who did the record. To me, that's super-whack.”

WHIZ AT THE BIZ: Amerie hasn't been navigating the music industry for too long, but she's already learned a major lesson about making her music sound like her.

Super-whack, indeed. In a world where uber-producers like the-Dream, Timbaland and Danja often play musical chairs with pop's A-list vocal cords, listening to the radio can have a particularly numbing effect.

You can hear it in lead single “Why R U” — a pining love song with a scrappy boom-bap track courtesy of the production team the Buchanans. Unlike the chorus of “1 Thing,” here our hero finds herself suspended in a different type of romantic disbelief: “Why are you the only thing that I care about? ... Baby, you're no good for me, no!” Her vocal trills morph into growls as the beat threatens to boil over.

“I like to work with people who are willing to create something with me, versus just giving me their off-the-rack track,” Amerie says of her collaborators.

That desire for control came to a head in 2007 when Amerie decided to shelve her then-forthcoming disc, “Because I Love It.” The singer had grown skeptical of her paymasters and put the project in cold storage as she plotted a move to hip-hop powerhouse Def Jam, where she's currently signed.

“There was just too much turmoil on the executive level,” she says of the lack of promotion she felt at her old label. “If it's not gonna be put out right, I don't want to do it.” CHRIS RICHARDS (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Reese Witherspoon will bring Terrel Seltzer's original screenplay to life.

Reese Will Follow the 'Rule #1'

The A-lister signs on to star in a film about friendship's beauty

CASTING | Terrel Seltzer has sold her original screenplay “Rule #1” to Fox Searchlight, with Reese Witherspoon attached to star and produce. The project is about a New York woman who befriends a Puerto Rican girl with attention-deficit disorder.

Seltzer, who is repped by Paradigm and Manage-Ment, wrote the Fox comedy “How I Got Into College” and co-wrote the George Clooney-Michelle Pfeiffer romantic comedy “One Fine Day.”

Witherspoon will next appear in the untitled James L. Brooks feature hitting theaters in December 2010. Through her Type A Films, Witherspoon has produced “Legally Blonde 2: Red, White and Blonde,” “Penelope” and “Four Christmases.” JAY A. FERNANDEZ (THE HOLLYWOOD REPORTER)

BOX OFFICE The 'It' Flick “Michael Jackson's This Is It” was the No. 1 Halloween thriller for movie audiences. The film led the weekend box office with a domestic debut of $21.3 million and raised its five-day total worldwide to $101 million. “This Is It” captures Jackson in behind-the-scenes performances in the weeks before his death in June, as he rehearsed his biggest hits for a marathon concert stand that was to begin in July. Distributor Sony paid $60 million for the film rights. (AP)

THE NEXT BEST THING: Johan Karlberg, Esau Mwamwaya and Etienne Tron, aka the Very Best, just released an album.

Mix(taping) It Up

The Very Best writes originals and samples greats to produce a joyful collection

TRIO | The Very Best burst onto the blogosphere last year with a free mixtape titled, simply, "Esau Mwamwaya and Radioclit Are the Very Best." It was a bold statement from an unknown Malawian singer and a British DJ duo who were best known for remixing pop songs.

But the combination of Mwamwaya's infectious voice over Radioclit's Afro-pop treatment of popular songs was undeniably joyful.

In September, the Very Best released its first album, "Warm Heart of Africa" (Green Owl). If anything, "Warm Heart of Africa" affirms that the Very Best's dance-ready, Afro- and electronic-steeped sound works just as well on original tracks as the sampled cuts.

Express talked to band member Johan Karlberg about how the group got together and Best's live show tonight.

You and Etienne Tron had been working together as Radioclit, but how did you meet Esau?

Esau was running a second-hand junk shop on the street outside our studio, and Etienne used to walk in there looking for stuff. One day he bought a bike from Esau and invited him to a house-warming party. That's where I met him and he told me he was a drummer, so I invited him to the studio. Turned out he was an amazing singer.

Your mixtape was incredibly well-received. Did you know you wanted to make a proper album before it, or did the mixtape spur you on? The album was done before the mixtape. The album was done last spring. After we finished it, we didn't want to stop recording, so we kept working on mixtape tracks and decided to put it up for free download to introduce people to our musical universe.

What is the touring configuration of the band?

Esau, DJ, dancers and a hype man. That's a very basic setup we're using right now. We want it to slowly grow into a beast over the coming year or two.

How have audiences been responding to the live show?

It's been truly amazing. People dance with the biggest smiles on their faces — that's all we could ever hope for. If we can bring something positive through the music, that's a real accomplishment, and we hope that's what were doing. When we played "Will You Be There" from the mixtape with Michael Jackson's vocal at Pitchfork Festival right after Michael passed, it was insane: lighters in the air, people crying, singing along, smiling — all in one go.

It seems a natural progression that Carrey, who previously depicted the Grinch on-screen, would tackle the grumpy old man.

Dickens' beloved classic is one of the most often adapted stories in Hollywood, but never before has it been seen in this emerging new visual format that combines live-

Despite all the positives, seeing himself on-screen as the elderly Scrooge was a bit disturbing for the 47-year-old. Not only did the

SHOW CHOIR | It seems like a no-brainer to say that if you like the music on Fox's "Glee," then you'll like the CD "Glee: the Music, Season 1, Volume 1."

The only problem is that outside the context of the show, these songs lose some of the perspective that makes them so charming on screen.

For one thing, due to the show-choir nature of the glee club, many of these songs are phrased as duets. On the album, though, you just and come out sounding all the same. These aren't just cover songs; they're Broadway-ified covers, and the contemporary songs suffer the most. Rihanna's "Take a Bow" becomes a nasal whine, and without Avril Lavigne's sullen growl, "Keep Holding On" quickly deteriorates into corny fluff.

All this is not to say that the CD's not fun — it is. These songs are campy and theatrical and excessive and overblown, just like the show. But a consistency of style and vocal approach makes it all a bit monotonous after awhile. CATH-

The glee club style is a lot of what makes this soundtrack so overwhelming: Songs from far-reaching eras and genres all get funneled into the Glee machine

Garage Explosion

King Khan's backing band may change (BBQ Show, the Shrines, etc.), but the jams he kicks out are always the same: "The kind of music that we do is really pure rhythm-and-blues and gospel," Khan told Express last April. This Indian-Canadian dynamo's live shows are giant spectacles of rock 'n' roll awesomeness, and his band murders soul music like Takeru Kobayashi kills hot dogs. c.p.

2 Endless 'Dream'

Bruce Springsteen is still working on his "Working on a Dream" tour, giving area Boss-heads plenty of opportunities this year to fill up their backstreets with his singular style of Americana. He's returning to Verizon Center tonight for the second time this year, and he'll also appear up the road in Baltimore on Nov. 20 at 1st Mariner Arena. It's an I-95 tunnel of Springsteen love. c.p.

Web 2.0 Technologies and Participatory Democracy

Moderated by Darrell M. West

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, AT 7 P.M.

President Obama has called for transparency and collaboration. But can "Government 2.0" technologies build a new kind of participatory democracy? A panel, moderated by Darrell M. West, Brookings Institution, discusses how collaborative democracy can be designed. Panelists include Beth Simone Noveck, White House Office of Science and Technology Policy; Mark H. Webbink, Center for Patent Innovations; Gigi B. Sohn, Public Knowledge; and Jason R. Baron, National Archives and Records Administration.

This program is generously supported by the William G. McGowan Charitable Fund, Inc.

'Poliwood' examines the intersection of activism and fame

ENDORSEMENT | An interesting film with a silly title, "Poliwood" (7:30 p.m., Showtime) looks at the intersection of politics and celebrity. Director Barry Levinson follows actors as they attend the political conventions in summer 2008 and January's inauguration, and he shows how celebrities can associate their famous faces with causes. But do they enhance people's understanding of issues?

We learn that Richard Dreyfuss has become an informed student of politics and has taught courses at Oxford. But when he discusses politics, he is dismissed as "the guy from 'Jaws.'"

Levinson tracks do-gooder celebs.

"Poliwood" also explores how ratings-driven talk/news shows have helped polarize government and the electorate because screaming matches are more "entertaining" than an informed discussion between reasonable people. KEVIN McDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Improve Depressive Symptoms Faster

Several medications are effective for treating depression; however, they take weeks or months to achieve their full effects. NIMH is studying whether a drug can cause a rapid antidepressant effect in patients with bipolar or unipolar depression. Understanding how this works may help us design better antidepressants. The study will also see if the rapid antidepressant effects can be sustained. The study is conducted at the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda, MD.

NIMH is Seeking Participants:

- Between ages 18-65 with depression (unipolar or bipolar)
- Free of other serious medical conditions
- Willing to participate in a 6- to 8-week inpatient stay

B.I.O.

BY INVITATION ONLY: UPCOMING WEDDINGS & UNIONS

Paul Hinders, Virginia Wilkins

Paul, 26, is a systems administrator. Virginia, 23, is a recruitment manager. They live in Arlington.

■ The Main Event: A Nov. 21 wedding at an old Masonic temple in Baltimore. Their pastor will officiate in front of 150 guests.

■ Honeymoon: A Caribbean cruise. "We're excited to go scuba diving in the different islands," Virginia says.

■ How They Met: On move-in day at St. Mary's College of Maryland. He was a junior and she was a freshman.

■ First Impressions: "I was afraid she wouldn't like me." "I thought he was annoyed by freshman girls following him around."

■ First Date: Pizza after their rugby practice.

■ How He Proposed: She surprised him with a February trip to Puerto Rico with his parents. He attached the ring to her clutch; while on the phone, she kept opening and closing her purse absentmindedly. "Finally," says Paul, "my mom said, 'Look at your purse!'"

■ Pet Names: "Nothing mushy; I call him 'Peej'" for "Paul Justin" (his middle name), says Virginia. Paul calls her "Florida" or other state names, "when I want to make her mad."

■ Their Song: "Little Moments" by Brad Paisley. "The girl in the song reminds me of her."

■ Most-Hated Clothing Item: Her high school graduation shirt that says "Sexy Seniors" on the front.

■ When They Knew: He knew after one semester, when he gave her a promise ring at her sorority formal. She knew when she took him to meet her parents and a tree fell on — and totaled — his rental car. "PJ was a good sport and took it all in stride; he even had a sense of humor about it all."

Peas Be Mine

She tells people that their first encounter was at a wine tasting, but the truth is JEN SCHUETT and PAUL VACA met at a Georgetown University event known as Security — "a nerdy game similar to Model U.N.," Jen says. "We were both on Team Poland. He likes to explain the details of the event and our team strategy when people ask how we met." Their first date: canvassing for Barack Obama on U Street.

Paul's proposal took an unexpected turn when Jen twisted her ankle 20 minutes before the romantic evening he'd planned was to begin. He switched gears and brought dinner, wine and champagne to Jen's place, "where I found her lying in bed, icing her foot with a bag of peas." And there he popped the question. "It wasn't what I had planned, but she said yes!"

Jen, 25, is a graduate student. Paul, 28, is a foreign service officer. They live in D.C. and will marry Nov. 21.

Stephen Decker, Ed Moore

Stephen, 56, left, is a nonprofit accountant. Ed, 46, is a retail manager and art instructor. They live in D.C.

■ The Main Event: They'll marry Nov. 21 in Hartford, Conn., with a small reception that day. A bigger party in D.C. will follow on Dec. 6.

■ Honeymoon: None due to time constraints at work, but "the last 20 years have been one anyway!" Ed says.

■ How They Met: Ed took out a personal ad in the Washington Blade, which Stephen answered more than 20 years ago.

■ First Impressions: "I fell for his big brown eyes and furry chest; then he gave me his impish smile and I was lost," Ed says. "Love at first sight," Stephen says.

■ First Date: Drinks at the DC Eagle.

■ How He Proposed: They'd been talking about making their relationship official, and one morning Ed proposed over coffee. "After my second cup of coffee, I still wanted to marry him."

■ Pet Names: Stephen is Ed's "Kewpie doll."

■ Wedding Jitters: "It'll be a windy day and my kilt will blow up," Stephen says.

King/Beauregard Intersection Improvement

City of Alexandria

Design Public Hearing

Wednesday, November 18, 2009, 6-8 p.m.
Minnie Howard Ninth Grade Center
3801 West Braddock Road, Alexandria, VA

Find out about the proposed improvements to the King/Beauregard Intersection that start at Chesterfield Road and end at North Hampton Drive. The proposed project will add an additional left turn lane in each direction on King Street, a median and 10' shared use path on King Street between Walter Reed Drive and 28th Street and on North Beauregard Street.

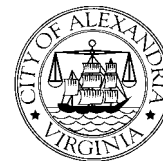

Review the proposed project plans and the National Environmental Policy Act documentation at the public hearing or at City of Alexandria City Hall, 301 King Street, Room 3200. You can also review the project information at VDOT's Northern Virginia District Office located at 14685 Avion Parkway, Chantilly, VA 20151, 703-383-8368 or on the City of Alexandria Web page at <http://alexandriava.gov/tes/info/default.aspx?id=3520>. Please call ahead to ensure the availability of personnel to answer your questions. Property impact information and tentative construction schedules are available for your review at the above addresses and will be available at the public hearing.

Give your written or oral comments at the hearing or submit them by December 1, 2009, to Ms. Lisa T.
